

The month between visits, brought into the room

Your patient keeps the readings you asked for, their medicines as they logged them, falls in their own words and a check of the house, then brings the pages to the visit. Every page says where each fact came from.

WHY IT FITS YOUR WORK

- When a patient sets up a reading, the app asks which doctor asked for it. Blood pressure, glucose, weight and oxygen print with the date, average and range.
- The Thrive Summary is marked self-reported and not a medical record. The CDC STEADI checklist prints with the CDC's own threshold, and medicine facts are quoted from the FDA label.
- Room Check reads each room from photos and sends your patient back to you for an occupational therapy referral. Nothing is sent to your practice.

WHAT THE PLAN COVERS

Home safety from photos.

Health basics and an emergency card.

Quiet family check-ins the older adult controls.

IT SENDS PEOPLE BACK TO YOU

“For personalized recommendations, ask your doctor for an occupational therapy referral, or search for a licensed occupational therapist through AOTA.”
